Description:

If you've been searching for that special pot of gold to add to your wine collection – you've found it in Saint Josef Auslese. As a picture of winemaking perfection, this Auslese's bright blonde hues will open up your tastebuds to a rare experience. Exotic tropical fruit, ripe melon and honey aromas complement the sweet, concentrated palate. It's a luscious treat and exceptional value!

The Rheinhausen region of Germany has varied soils and favorable climate offering a wide range of growing conditions for many grape varieties. In fact, many of Germany's aromatic, early-ripening grapes were bred in the Rheinhausen area. The region boasts the world's largest acreage planted with the ancient varietal, Silvaner and your Auslese treasure trove is a blend of Silvaner and the distinguished Riesling grape.

Often described as producing fragrant, medium-bodied wines with mild acidity, the Rheinhausen is known to make distinctive wines of great quality. That is exactly what Auslese (pronounced: Owss-leh-zeh) means. German wine laws categorize the ripeness measured in the natural grape sugar upon harvest. The higher the ripeness (more extracted sugar) the higher in the pyramid it is classified. Auslese literally translates as "picked out" which means the grapes used to make this wine are of a slightly higher ripeness level than a Spatlese but have been hand-selected from specific bunches.

Though not as sweet as an Eiswein or Beerenauslese, this little Auslese has some kick and is a terrific afternoon sipper with creamy cheeses or other appetizers, or even as a nice dessert selection.
